Area high schools graduate 500

Top seniors make college plans

Chemical engineering is the career of choice among the top students at Granite City, Madison and Venice high schools.

Granite City valedictorian and salutatorian Sabina Kumar and Colleen Fritzsche and Venice High School valedictorian Annie Lyons all plan to become chemical engineers.

Kumar plans to attend the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind., while Fritzsche will go to the University of Illinois.

Lyons will attend Tuskegee University in Alabama.

The three were among 500 high school seniors graduated from area schools.

Venice and Granite City high school graduations were held Friday; Madison High School's was held the week before.

"I'm really interested in math and science, and it sounded like a good career," Fritzsche said. "I might try to get a master's degree and do graduate studies, but I'm not sure yet."

Venice High School salutatorian Antwan Anderson said he also plans to attend the University of Illinois, majoring in pre-law and business administration.

Flood recovery offices are opened

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Illinois Emergency Management Agency and Federal Emergency Management Agency have opened three flood recovery information offices, including one at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College.

Phil Zaferopulos, FEMA's federal coordinating officer, said the centers will be staffed by representatives of local, state, and federal agencies, as well as private organizations offering help to disaster victims.

"Many people have a difficult time dealing with someone they can't see and need the more human contact that going to a recovery center provides," he said.

At the centers, he said people can do the following:

- Examine options for rebuilding or repairing damaged buildings located in flood plains.
- Learn common-sense measures to reduce the impact of future flooding.
- Receive additional assistance on, and specific information about U.S. Small Business Administration disaster loans.
- Receive written information about Internal Revenue Service tax relief for flood victims, and help provided by the American Red Cross and other private agencies.
- Receive information about the Disaster Housing and Individual and Family Grant Programs.
- Learn about the National Flood Insurance Program.

Town budget is criticized for increases

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Granite City Township realized a budgetary surplus of nearly a quarter of a million dollars last year and had a total of more than $411,000 in the bank at the start of this year, according to a proposed township budget.

But with all that money in the bank, at least one member of the Town Board's Finance Committee has a problem with expenditures proposed in the 1995-96 township budget.

The Town Board's Finance Committee was to discuss the township budget last night, Tuesday. A public hearing on the budget is slated for July 18.

The township's proposed budget for 1995-96 — which began Feb. 28 — includes expenditures of $887,140, a 2.1 percent reduction compared to the 1994-95 budget of $906,190.

The current-year budget appropriates $612,560 from the Town Fund for anticipated expenses; $193,500 from the General Assistance Fund; and $81,080 from retirement, social security, unemployment insurance and Medicare funds.

The 1995-96 budget appropriates $299,340 for expenses incurred by Supervisor Nellie Hagnauer's office, a 3.6 decrease in expenses; $349,915 for Assessor Darlene Laub's office expenses, a 6.5 percent increase; and $7,385 for tax collector Gail Valle's office, a 5.5 percent increase.

"Those figures are not the ones we talked about or authorized in committee," Trustee Craig Tarpoff said.

Tarpoff is the only finance committee member remaining who served when budget meetings were held in April. Former Trustee and committee chairman Walter Milton was defeated in the April election. Former Trustee Jim Miller did not seek re-election and was replaced in May.

Milton and Miller have been replaced by trustees Mac Warfield, chairman, and Foster Frederick.

Despite the township's surplus, Tarpoff said that Laub and Valle should have reduced expenditures rather than increased

Students reach out to bombing victims

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Neal Rogers, a sixth grade student at Niedringhaus Elementary School, watched the aftermath of the Oklahoma City bombing closely on television.

"I just felt I had to do something — we should do something to help those kids," Rogers said.

Rogers took his idea of a fund-raiser to his teacher, Janet Wilson, who then took the idea to school district Director of Elementary Education Ron Stern and to other teachers at union meetings.

"As I talked to other teachers, I discovered many other schools were interested. In fact some were already working along the same lines," Wilson said.

The result is more than $6,000 raised to aid the victims of the terrorist bombing and a tree planted in Wilson Park in memory of the victims.

At Niedringhaus, Maryville, Prather, Marshall, Lake, Wilson, Frohardt and Worthen elementary schools, students made collec

County has $1 million available

Madison County officials are expected to begin awarding up to $1 million in block grants this month for Community Development projects.

The county's Community Development Grant Committee narrowed a list Friday of 50 applications proposing more than $3 million in improvements. The committee is expected to submit a final list to the Madison County Board for approval June 21.

Community Development Director Cheryl Jouett said that about $850,000 in grants will be awarded for public facility improvements and about $150,000 will be awarded for the removal of architectural barriers.

The grants are capped at $125,000 per project, Jouett said.

"We can't fund all the projects," she said, "but we do assist with as many projects as we can."

Among the applications are

Shooting suspect freed

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

Lawrence McNairy was acquitted of attempted murder and aggravated battery Thursday in the shooting of his mother-in-law in a case involving alleged drug dealing in the Eagle Park area.

The jury deliberated less than four hours before returning a verdict that made the 19-year-old McNairy a free man. He was charged with shooting Carole J. Carney of Summerfield in the back of the head June 19, 1993, and leaving her on the road.

However, the jury found there was not enough evidence for a conviction, especially since Carney could not verify that McNairy was the one who shot her.

She gave tearful testimony saying the entire incident was her fault because of her drug addiction.

Henry Goehner of Belleville said he had dated Carney and they often used cocaine together. He saw her the day before the shooting and loaned her a .22-caliber gun.

Carney was riding with McNairy and two other youths, Goehner said, and was returning a half pound of marijuana she had bought in Eagle Park that she believed to be a full pound.

tion cans from plastic cat food containers. They collected $2,203 for the fund.

At Granite City High School, more than $4,000 was collected.

"When children, in times of tragedy, reach out to help others, how can adults doubt the future?" Wilson asked.

"When high school students with one ear ring, stringy hair and torn sneakers are seen giving $10 made mowing lawns; when sixth graders with ball caps pulled low over their eyes give up lunch for a day; many positive things are said," Wilson said.

President Bill Clinton urged citizens to plant a tree in memory of those who died in the bombing.

Children at Wilson Elementary School planted a tree on school grounds.

Janet Wilson's Niedringhaus students planted a Himalayan Zebra Pine tree in Wilson Park, the only one of its kind there. A wooden marker under the tree tells passers-by of the reason the tree was planted.

"When it stands in the Japanese Garden, 20 feet tall, with its eight- to 10-inch yellow striped quills, our sixth graders will be young parents," Wilson said.

"I have been teaching in Granite City for 28 years and haven't run into a bad child. We have a lot of good children in Granite City," Wilson said.

Booming recycling market may help consumers

The booming, competitive recycling market may help Madison County residents get a better deal for their trash.

"With markets paying so much, it's possible they could break even on collection costs. That's the ultimate goal — a program that pays for itself," Madison County Building, Zoning and Environmental Administrator Joe Parente said.

Some county residents in curbside recycling programs are paying $2 a month more and sorting their own trash for pick-up. Proponents of a mixed-waste recycling system say they would charge the same $2 a month to pick-up unsorted trash.

But a proposal by Laidlaw Waste Systems Inc. to operate a recycling center for curbside programs that will pay market prices for separated recyclables may influence costs to the benefit of residents.

Parents said the county welcomes all competing ideas and plans that can help meet recycling goals. "It would be healthy if we had more than one recycling center, but only the market knows if that is feasible," he said.

County officials are continuing negotiations with Resource Recovery Systems of Centerbrook, Conn., the county-picked low bidder to build a proposed clean merf that will process curbside recyclables in the county.

The merf is part of the county's plan to meet a state mandate to recycle 25 percent of landfill waste by 1996.

RRS plans to rebate $15.25 per ton on recyclables delivered to the plant after tonnage reaches a certain level, and the county will pass the refunds back to participating municipalities.

Norton Environmental of Independence, Ohio, is negotiating with Alton, Granite City and other municipalities to line up support for a mixed-waste system, or a dirty merf, but the company has not disclosed specific terms of a possible agreement.

Norton Vice President Louis Perez said the company plans to put a facility in the county that will capture residential and commercial trash. "Things are moving along," he said.

Laidlaw's announced plans may put pressure on the other players, officials said.

Laidlaw said it will offer market prices for recyclables delivered to its planned materials recovery facility expected to open this fall near the company's Roxana landfill.

The timetable would make it the first merf in operation in the county.

The facility would pay haulers or individuals for recyclables based on market prices.

Laidlaw plans to build a new 15,000-square-foot clean merf, or possibly rehab a 9,000-square-foot metal pole barn near the landfill and expand it to 15,000 square feet.

Company officials are "pretty certain" the new facility will be built, Laidlaw Senior Division General Manager Larry Giroux said.

"(The barn) would work, but we've had a big

Floods may hurt fish population

Some commercial fishermen said they're concerned that flooding has hurt catfish populations in the Mississippi and Illinois rivers, but a conservation official said the catch should still be plentiful.

May and June are egg-laying months for catfish. When rivers rise out of their banks, that forces some spawning fish into fields and other areas that they might not be able to get out of.

"If catfish spawn in fields or near levees, (the young catfish) can't get back out into the river when the water drops," Godfrey commercial fisherman Jim Smith said. "That hurts the total fish population for a matter of years until they get another good spawn."

Biologist Butch Atwood of the Illinois Department of Conservation said the flood won't have a dramatic effect on catfish populations, however.

"Some fish will be lost, no doubt, but fish can find their way back somehow," Atwood said.

Conservation Department personnel check fish populations annually, and catfish numbers jumped after the 1993 flood, Atwood said.

As to reports from some commercial anglers that they can't find as many catfish, Atwood said with a laugh, "I guess they got them all."

High waters or low, Atwood said there's no chance that catfish or other river fish are headed for the endangered list.

"All these river fish are adapted to the natural rise and fall in the rivers," he said. "We're not worried about them."

Carnival rides will be featured with a weekend wristband special (all three days) for $30 per person in advance and $35 during the picnic.

Wristband matinees will be conducted on Saturday from noon to 5 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. and again from 6 to 10 p.m. The cost is $8 per per matinee in advance and $12 during the picnic. Individual ride tickets will also be available for sale.

Special dinners will be served throughout the weekend. On Friday, a fish fry with catfish, cod and Jack salmon, will be featured from 4 to 7 p.m. The cost is $4.95. Saturday's dinner is lasagna, served from 4 to 7 p.m. at a cost of $5.50.

An all-you-can-eat broasted chicken dinner will be served from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday at a cost of $6 per person. All dinners are served in the air-conditioned cafeteria.

Poker, the big wheel, pull tabs, a pan game and "I Do'd It" will be the featured games during the weekend-long picnic.

'Boy Next Door' opens Thursday

"The Boys Next Door" will be the next production at Summerstage. This new comedy by Tom Griffin is the heartwarming story of four mentally handicapped men and how they deal with the "normal" world. Often very funny, this play also has some of the most insightful moments ever written about handicapped people.

The show will run Thursday through Sunday, June 8-11, at the Summerstage Playhouse, 2906 Pershing in Granite City. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. nightly. Tickets may be reserved by calling 451-1032. All tickets are $6. Children get in for $4 when accompanied by an adult.

Featured in the cast are Bill Conklin, Ken Elliff, Jake Erickson and Pat Jessee as the handicapped men. Dr. Richard Skirball plays their therapist and care taker. Others in the cast are John Mefford, Jack Moenster, Michele Arvizu-Prater and Kiki Supp.

The play is directed by Beverley Scroggins with Nona Mefford as stage manager. The set will be constructed by Charles Fossieck with lighting designed by Marty Eckhard.

proposal that would make it in our best interest to build a new one," Giroux said. "We can get it done very affordable. It's one of those deals we can't refuse."

Laidlaw operates 28 clean merfs, including a 200-ton-a-day facility in Schaumburg. "We believe clean merfs are the way to go," Giroux said.

He said curbside programs command higher prices for recyclables because by being sorted they maintain higher quality and are more attractive to buyers of recyclables.

The company will also concentrate on commercial accounts that recycle large quantities of paper products.

"We are educating people and getting more than 25 percent recycling (including composting yard wastes) on curbside programs in Edwardsville and Collinsville. We can expand to reach the county's goals as they expand. We're hitting 40 percent in Schaumburg," he said.

The company has the financial resources to carry the program through fluctuating markets and is a large stockholder in Canadian Pacific Railroad, which owns pulp mills.

"We will never be caught in a position where we will have to pay to get rid of recyclable paper," he said.

The company has a huge internal push to get involved in recycling centers, which Giroux called the missing link in the company's hauling and landfill business.

Parente said the county's Environmental Control Committee will consider the Laidlaw entry along with the RRS proposal before deciding which path to follow.

County Board officials ruled out the dirty merf proposal several months ago in a close vote, but Norton officials have counted independent support to build the plant.

"We're looking for the best deal in terms of service and cost," Parente said. "We're working weekly with RRS and would like something to be built and on line by spring."

Not Specialized Services now

35-year-old agency becomes 'Challenge Unlimited'

ALTON — A non-profit group dedicated to training and hiring people with disabilities is celebrating 35 years of growth by changing its name.

Specialized Services Inc. is now Challenge Unlimited Inc. in recognition of a broader and growing community role and a change in philosophy.

Specialized Services has gone from finding grants to keep the half dozen disabled children of the founders busy in a sheltered workshop to placing employees in community jobs as a step toward an independent, productive life.

"It was this change in philosophy, along with our tremendous growth, that eventually led to our reorganization and name change," Challenge Unlimited President Tom Moehn said.

Moehn and River Bend Growth Association President Jim Bowman marked the change by unveiling a new sign Friday at the organization's headquarters on Emmie L. Kaus Lane off Fosterburg Road. About 60 dignitaries and friends applauded as the new Challenge symbol, a snow-capped blue mountain, appeared.

"This is an important resource for local companies and another example of the kind of service available to business that helps the community grow," Bowman said.

Moehn agreed with State Rep. Ron Stephens of Troy that 35 years of success is impressive and important. "It's important because we are helping people all over the metropolitan area become as independent as possible," Moehn said. "That's what we're all about."

Challenge spokeswoman Dale Sheets said the challenge is learning how to do things better.

"We are actually unveiling a new era for Specialized Services, he said. "We have reorganized to make the operation more efficient. We are fresh and ready for the future, armed with immense growth and diversity.

"We started 35 years ago with a handful of people. We now employ about 1,200 people in Madison and St. Clair counties, including 700 people with disabilities."

Challenge Unlimited encompasses three affiliates that train workers, supply contract services and house clients who can live in group homes.

The vocational development branch, Directions, teaches job skills in a workshop environment. Alpha Industries, the affirmative enterprise company, concentrates on supplying services such as grounds maintenance, food preparation, mail handling or shelf stocking at outside companies.

Alpha workers handle food service at Scott Air Force Base near Belleville and hold other jobs at a dozen companies, including Olin Corp., Nestle Beverage Co. and McDonnell Douglas Corp.

An $11,500 increase in salaries for Laub's nine employees accounts for most of the increase in expenditures in her budget. In April the Finance Committee discussed reducing Laub's budget request by $20,000, but took no action when Milton abruptly ended the meeting with the motion pending.

The $385 in additional expenditures in Valle's budget includes a $200 raise for the deputy collector, a part-time position.

Tarpoff said the Finance Committee discussed not funding the tax collector position at all.

"I don't know who authorized a raise for the deputy collector. We were going to budget zero for the tax collector," Tarpoff said.

Because property taxes can now be paid at almost any bank or by mail, most townships in the county have kept the tax collector position as a ceremonial office only with a salary of $1.

For example, the local tax collector collected $12.8 million in property taxes in 1992, but collected only $1.626 million and $1.385 million in 1993 and 1994 respectively since the countywide bank collection program began.

Tarpoff said the local collector position has been used as a political plum in Granite City.

Last year, the deputy collector — a part-time position that pays a little more than $4,000 — was Valle's sister Kay Dalton, Tarpoff said. In prior years, Milton's son has held the position.

The township had about $8,400 in the Town Fund at the beginning of fiscal year 1994-95.

Last year's budget estimated that $8,287 would remain in the fund at the end of the year. But the Town Fund actually contained about $163,500 at the end of last year, according to the current year budget.

Similarly, the General Assistance Fund realized a surplus of $74,514 last year to add to its $176,381 already on hand at the start of the year.

The current year budget anticipates $664,000 in revenue from property taxes, $220,000 in revenue from replacement taxes and $52,500 in revenue from Madison County Transit.

The Town Fund should realize an additional $155,400 surplus at the end of the year if revenues and expenditures occur as expected, according to the budget.

Insurance firm moving to University Park

Officials are hoping the new national headquarters of GeneraLife insurance company will trigger further development at University Park.

University and GeneraLife officials announced the relocation of the company's headquarters from St. Louis to the business and technology park at a press conference Friday.

The company, a subsidiary of General American Life Insurance Co., plans to build a 10,000-square-foot building on North Research Drive.

"Why would a St. Louis-based, $14 billion insurance company choose to locate at SIUE? Because the evolution of the business, especially financial (aspects), indicates it is incredibly important that technology be used, not only for record-keeping but for a marketing advantage," said Richard A. Liddy, chairman, president and chief executive officer of General American Life Insurance Co.

"The best way to penetrate the market is to take maximum advantage of the technology available to us," he said.

Liddy said technological opportunities and a pro-business environment attracted the company to the park, as well as the opportunity to establish links with university staff and students.

He said it became "increasingly clear the diamond was in our back yard. The combination was very compelling. There is an educated work force with a good work ethic here," he said.

Among officials attending the press conference were SIU Chancellor James Brown and SIUE President Nancy Belck, who praised the company as an "anchor" that brings "prestige" to the park.

The company plans to begin with a staff of 15 at the headquarters building and expand to 25 to 50 workers, Liddy said. The company's computers will be connected to SIUE's computer network and will receive satellite transmissions.

The building will accommodate expansion and allow the company to hold training sessions, product seminars and other functions for staff nationwide.

Liddy said the influx of employes from across the nation will give the university more exposure.

The flood recovery offices will be open from 10 a.m.-7 p.m. daily, for as long as they are needed.

The three offices are located at Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, Module Building 1 and 2, 4950 Maryville Road, Granite City; Clyde C. Jordan Senior Citizen Center, 6755 State Street, Room 1, East St. Louis; and Caseyville Fire Station, 312 S. Main Street (Illinois 157), Caseyville.

People going to the Caseyville location should enter through the truck bays on South Long Street.

Zaferopulos said using the toll-free telephone numbers is still the first step in applying for state and federal assistance, but the offices are designed to assist people who need additional information or wish to talk face-to-face with recovery specialists.

The toll-free numbers are 1-800-462-9029 or 1-800-462-7585 for the speech or hearing impaired.

Linda Sacia, a FEMA spokesman, said Monday that approximately 2,043 people have applied for aid, including 1,731 requests for housing assistance. She also noted that 93 assistance checks were being sent out in the next few days.

FEMA and IEMA also sent out several community relations teams over the weekend.

"The purpose of these teams is to make sure that affected individuals and small businesses get the information they need about the array of housing, loan and grant assistance they may be eligible to receive," Zaferopulos said. "I rely on our community relations staff not only to get our word out, but also to find out first hand the problems communities are facing."

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello also spent part of the weekend meeting with local, state and federal officials.

Costello met with local officials Saturday at the Illinois Department of Transportation regional headquarters in Collinsville. About 50 local elected officials attended the briefing.

"It is important for local officials to know what services are available to assist them in recovering from the current flooding," Costello said.

With Madison and St. Clair counties declared federal disaster areas, he added that additional help can be provided to local communities.

interested in in quite some time," he said. "I like to argue about everything. Most of all I like to prove my point."

Madison salutatorian Beth Hamm said she is going to attend Missouri School for Doctor's Assistants.

"I like the medical field a lot, and there I can get started on my medical background, and further my education down the road," she said.

Jones

Madison valedictorian Jillian Jones could not be reached for comment.

Most area graduates — 441 — came from Granite City High School. Venice graduated 21 seniors, while Madison had 38 graduates.

GCHS Principal Dave Painter said he was pleased with the ceremony Friday.

"We had the faculty involved for the first time this year," he said. "It added a great deal to the ceremony. And it did not rain."

Painter said that was very important.

"I left home (in Pontoon Beach) at 6:15 p.m. and it was pouring down rain, and it was also raining in downtown Granite City," he said. "It rained all around us, but not on the athletic field."

Reappointment of judges sought

The Tri-City Bar Association, by unanimous vote of its members, is asking the judges of the Third Judicial Circuit to consider reappointment of two associate judges.

The bar group said it has practiced before and has knowledge of the abilities and competency of former Associate Judges Daniel Stack and Michael Meehan.

The two were ousted by a vote of the circuit judges.

The request for reappointment was adopted through a vote of the membership of the Tri-City Bar Association at its regular meeting May 18.

William Beatty is president of the bar group.

With U.S. Savings Bonds, the more you give, the more you receive.

Every day, we pass a little of ourselves on to the next generation. What perspective means, when to use a fan brush, which colors blend for a perfect autumn landscape, where to highlight. The knowledge that we give stays with them forever. And we hope we've made their lives a little richer for the learning.

Giving U.S. Savings Bonds also passes an important lesson on to the future generation. Bonds can teach our children how to save, how interest grows and how a small investment can help make their dreams come true.

Buying U.S. Savings Bonds contributes to a solid and secure America for generations to come. What a great way for you to say, "I believe in your future!"

Bonds are as easy to buy as they are to give. Buy them at half their face value through your local bank. U.S. Savings Bonds are like friendships — the longer they're kept, the more they're worth.

So share the tradition of U.S. Savings Bonds. They're the gift that gives back more than you've given.

Chemical company agrees to penalites

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

Chemical Waste Management Inc. has agreed to pay $850,000 in penalties for emissions and storage violations at its Trade Waste Incinerator (TWI) in Sauget.

Attorney General Jim Ryan announced in front of the St. Clair County Courthouse Thursday that an order had been signed to begin clean up, monitoring and disposal of hazardous wastes near the area.

"We feel this is fair and reasonable," Ryan said. "I am pleased we entered this consent decree and they're acting responsibly, but we intend to be vigilant."

The company will pay $250,000 in civil penalties and contribute $225,000 for increased oversight of the facility the next two years, $200,000 toward the clean up of waste sites in the East St. Louis area and $175,000 to provide household hazardous waste disposal programs in St. Clair, Madison and Monroe counties.

A company representative at the press conference refused comment, but a statement released later called the agreement "the direct result of issues our company responsibly reported to the state."

"We reached this agreement with the state solely to resolve a long-standing dispute over differing interpretations of highly technical regulations regarding the facility's operations," said William J. Plunkett, a company spokesman.

"We have acted in cooperation with the state and as a responsible neighbor," he added.

Ryan said the company had signed an agreement in 1991 after being cited for violations, but the seriousness of the problems have decreased over time, an indication the company wants to comply. None of the recent problems involved the actual release of toxic fumes.

"There were no environmental releases so at no time were residents at risk," Ryan said. "We don't think the violations ever compromised the public's health."

East St. Louis Mayor Gordon D. Bush said the agreement would give residents a greater sense of security because the attorney general will be watching the company closer.

"Several hundred residents in the south end (Rush City) are always concerned about chemical releases. This could have been something that could have been harmful to them and now it makes them feel better," he said. "This sends a strong signal that the air we breathe should be safe and clean."

State's Attorney Bob Haida said he appreciated the effort Ryan was putting into St. Clair County to clean up environmental problems.

"The state's attorney's office has been committed to environmental enforcement for some time but we can't do it alone," Haida said. "He (Ryan) doesn't just speak it. He means it."

Jim Morgan of the attorney general's office said the agreement was worked out by "mutual effort" of the parties after discussions began in December.

The attorney general's office obtained a $3.3 million settlement from Chemical Waste management in December 1991 after numerous air pollution and permit violations.

Retirement dinner set for B.J. Davis

At the end of June, B.J. Davis, the provost of Belleville Area College's Granite City and Red Bud campuses, will retire after more than 40 years of service in education.

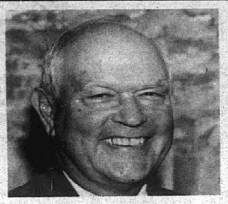

A retirement dinner will be held at 6 p.m. June 9 at the Granite City Campus. The event will include a buffet, music and reminiscence of Davis' career. Guests will include Joseph J. Cipfl, BAC president; Dr. Valarie Thaxton, vice president of community services; Michael Reed, vice provost of the Red Bud Campus; Harold Johnson, vice provost of the Granite City Campus; and Sharron Owca, executive secretary to Davis.

Kathy O'Dell, director of the BAC Foundation, will serve as master of ceremonies. Music will be provided by pianist Josh Moore, son of Jim Moore, director of the Industrial Training Center. The Hospitality Food Service Management program will prepare the buffet.

Tickets for the event are $10. After the dinner, the reminiscence will begin at 7 p.m. Seating is limited, so tickets must be purchased in advance at the Belleville, Granite City or Red Bud campus business offices.

"I have truly enjoyed my work at Belleville Area College and my years in higher education," Davis said. "It has been an extremely satisfying way to bring my professional career to a close."

Davis began his career with BAC in 1987 as the interim chancellor of the college. Davis was selected as provost of the Granite City and Red Bud campuses in July 1989.

Kids offer hope for baseball fans

The setting was the recent Centralia Class AA baseball regional, where I sat by three youngsters on a park bench just outside the home plate area.

In this era of bashing major league baseball, I could not figure out why two third-graders and a fifth-grader would be sitting on a bench watching O'Fallon High assistant coach Norm Toenjes hit fielding practice prior to the O'Fallon-Triad regional game.

"YOU GUYS SHOULD be roller-blading somewhere," I said.

"Nah, we like baseball," said one of the three.

"You live near here?" I asked, assuming they were familiar to the surroundings of Jaycees Park.

"We play here all the time," was the response.

Imagine that, I thought. In this age of hockey on wheels and interests other than baseball, there are three kids in Centralia who profess to liking baseball.

"Tell you what I'll do," I said. "How 'bout if I tell you of a game you could play all day and all you need is four players, a ball, a couple of markers, a bat and, of course, your gloves?"

WHEN I ASKED if they had heard of left-field ball (these days I'd never offend by calling it Indian ball), their interest perked.

I then explained placing two soda cans or two towels on the infield with one near where third base would be and the other (for their age) about halfway between second and third base. The object would be for an infielder to place himself in that area and an outfielder to play behind him.

That would be the defensive team, and when they had fielded a ground ball cleanly or caught a fly ball or line drive, it would constitute an out.

The other two players would form the team at bat, and they would function with one tossing the ball to his teammate (batter) until there were three outs, or they could alternate after each at-bat. Foul balls did not count and there could be no striking out. The only extra-base hit would be a fly ball over the outfielder's head or over the fence if the game were played close enough to allow that.

The latter comment caused a smile from one of the third-graders as much as the smile I gave when they almost said in unison: "We're going to try the game."

EXTRA INNINGS: In losing 4-1 to Triad, O'Fallon was given a lesson in how to pitch, especially since the inception of the aluminum bat.

Triad pitcher Doug Kreitner permitted just six hits, struck out four and walked two while throwing an assortment of off-speed pitches that had the O'Fallon batters lunging.

The aluminum bat subject also arose at the Belleville West Regional prior to West's 3-0 victory over Belleville East. Maroons coach Chuck Hasenstab told me of the reason of East hurler Jim Pecoraro's season-long improvement.

"He's learned to change speeds on the breaking ball," said Hasenstab, whose team managed only two hits until the eighth inning, when Brian Fuess' two-run homer highlighted a three-run West outburst.

Clippers' bats carry way past East St. Louis

Granite City plates 28 in sweep

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Early in the Mon-Clair Baseball League season, the Granite City Clippers have had their troubles at the plate.

Unfortunately for the East St. Louis Colt 45s, all of that changed on Sunday.

DARIN HENDRICKSON and Brian Harshany were the recipients of 28 runs of support, as visiting Granite City swept a doubleheader from the Colts at Jones Park.

The Clippers (6-2) amassed 14 hits in the first game to win 15-3, then got 11 more in the nightcap to prevail 13-6.

Granite City has apparently gotten its act together.

"We started off a little slow this year, but it was because we weren't hitting the ball well," Granite City player-manager Daren DePew said. "Today everybody was swinging the bats well, and that's what we have to do to win.

"ALL ALONG, our pitching was there, and that continued today."

Hendrickson was the winner in game one, scattering five hits while striking out eight and walking just one. He also helped himself out with an RBI single in the two-run fifth inning, which gave the Clippers a big 9-1 cushion.

"They are an outstanding team," said Colts (1-3) manager Carlos Stanford. "They hit the ball very well, and we are short of pitching right now. They took advantage of that."

Big innings were common for the Clippers on Sunday. They put an exclamation point on game one by scoring six runs in the seventh inning after plating four runs in the third.

DePew cracked a homer in the second inning off Colts starter Jamon Company. That followed consecutive triples by John Moad and Harshany.

IN GAME TWO, Harshany benefited from Granite City outbursts of five runs in the third and four in the fourth. After another two spot in the fifth, the Clippers led 13-1.

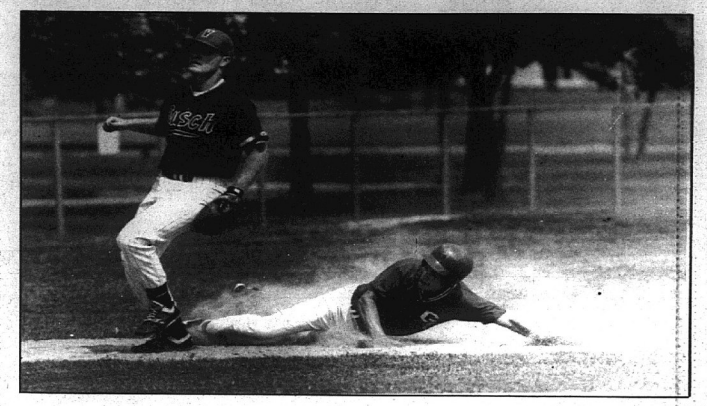

Moad also tripled again in the two-run first for Granite City, and Jeff Stephens added a triple of his own leading off the third. Later in the inning, DePew smacked another triple, good for three RBIs. Most of the three-baggers hit on Sunday would have been home runs in a fenced-in diamond.

But the Colts would be heard from in the second game, as the Clippers seemed to relax a bit in the seventh inning leading 13-2.

Having surrendered seven hits through the first six innings, Harshany allowed six consecutive hits to open the seventh.

Jeff Stephens slides in. Stephens triggered a five-run rally in the second game of Sunday's doubleheader with a leadoff triple in the third inning of Granite City's 13-6 win.

Mascoutah pitcher shocks Collinsville

Indians eliminate Kahoks 7-5; Mt. Vernon routs Jerseyville

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

Mascoutah senior pitcher Matt Brendel derailed Collinsville High's dream season.

The Kahoks (25-7), ranked No. 1 in the St. Louis area, had accomplished so many things this season that it seemed they were ready to take the steps necessary to make it to state.

But Brendel had ideas of his own trip to Geneva. He was virtually untouchable through the first six innings in the semifinals of the Centralia Class AA Sectional on Monday as the Indians scalped the Kahoks 7-5 at Kaskaskia College.

MASCOUTAH ADVANCED to Tuesday's sectional title game and was scheduled to face Mount Vernon, which defeated Jerseyville 10-0 in five innings in the first semifinal game Monday.

Against Collinsville, Brendel gave up just two hits and struck out seven batters through the first six innings.

"Brendel certainly did a wonderful job," Collinsville coach Steve McFall said. "He got the job done. He was certainly the best on the mound today."

While Brendel seemingly got every first pitch over for a strike, his counterpart, Collinsville junior Matt Field, struggled throughout the game with his control.

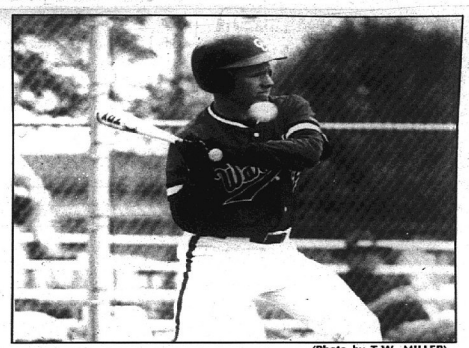

"CONSIDERING THE way he's pitched all year, he didn't have very good command of his pitches," McFall said. "He didn't throw the fastball for strikes nearly often enough and he couldn't spot it when he did get in the zone. He was in the middle of it. He only threw the curveball and slider for strikes occasionally. Against good teams and good hitters, that is going to kill you."

Meanwhile, Brendel shut down the Kahoks' powerful offense for six innings. Collinsville had scored 24 runs in its two previous postseason games. Brendel held the middle part of the Kahoks lineup to just two hits.

"He was throwing his curveball on any pitch for a strike and that makes a difference," Mascoutah coach Jeff Junker said. "Their pitcher wasn't able to get

Sternbergh sprints past field for easy win at Tri-City

By Steve Birmingham
Correspondent

Wayne Sternbergh convinced the SKOAL Racing Sprint Car field that 1995 would be his year by winning Saturday's main event at Tri-City Speedway in convincing style.

Randy Bateman jumped Sternbergh on the start but a crash involving Butch Nutsut and Tony Stinebaker negated his advantage. Sternbergh learned his lesson, though, as he grabbed the point on the restart and stretched his lead to almost 20 car lengths. Sternbergh had clear sailing for the next seven laps until a spin by Todd Stark brought out the yellow. It was no problem for Sternbergh, though, as he took Bateman wheel-to-wheel into turn one and came out 10 lengths ahead.

FOLLOWING HIM across the stripe were Bateman, Ricky Logan, Tommy Scott and Dean Adams.

The brothers Seets waged a civil war in the Budweiser Grand American Modified main with Tom Seets notching the win. John Seets led the early going but Tom wrested the lead from him on lap seven and never looked back, scoring his fifth Clark Racing Series victory of the season. Rounding out the top five were John Seets, Larry Hughes, Mike Null and Darrell Hoffman.

Prior to his Grand American win, the always busy Seets found time to win his second Red Dog Pro Stock feature of the season. The win ties him with 1994 Co-Champion Pat Ryan in Red Dog main event victories.

LARRY MARTIN won the May 6 make-up feature in the Tri-City Street Stock division over Dennis Wernle and Rick

Puma Cup tickets to be offered as consolation prize

Youngsters who were not selected to participate in the Puma Cup Invitational youth clinic will receive the consolation prize of a pair of tickets to the event's final game.

If you entered the contest to be a clinic participant and your name was not among those that appeared in the Sunday, June 4 Journal, you may pick up a pair of tickets to the championship Puma Cup game.

Tickets will be held at the VIP corporate sponsor area in St. Louis Soccer Park in Fenton. They can be picked up any time before the championship match, which is at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The Puma Cup Invitational starts today with matches at 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. The tournament continues Thursday and Friday with two evening matches, concluding with Saturday's 1 p.m. final.

The Suburban Journals are the presenting sponsor of the Puma Cup Invitational and the Friday youth clinic. The clinic will involve 500 youngsters receiving tips and instruction from Puma Cup players, coaches and staff.

Kirgan leading youth wrestlers to nationals

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

More young Granite City wrestlers are qualifying for some of the biggest wrestling tournaments in the country — and so is their coach.

Allen Kirgan, the hard-working coach of the Granite City Wrestling Club, is also piling up the accolades.

KIRGAN HAS BEEN selected as the coach for Illinois in the Indiana Schoolboys' All-Star wrestling meet, to be held in Indianapolis this weekend.

He will take with him three area wrestlers.

Gary Oxford qualified in the 80-pound weight class, George Kirgan qualified in the 135-pound class and Kevin Venne will compete at 155 pounds.

The tournament will feature teams from seven states. The teams will square off in a dual-meet, round-robin format.

"EACH KID GETS six matches in all," said Kirgan, "so it gives them a good period of work before the nationals."

Also qualifying for the Schoolboys' tourney was Mark Justice of Collinsville at 120 pounds.

The nationals will be held July 7-16 in Lincoln, Neb. Besides the group already mentioned, one other Granite City wrestler has qualified for that meet: Ben Temple, at 242 pounds.

Kirgan has also been picked to coach that event, as well as the Northern Plains Invitational. The Northern Plains tourney will be held June 15-17 in Omaha, Neb.

GRANITE CITY has five qualifiers for Northern Plains. George Kirgan, who has won the Greco championship twice and finished as high as second in the freestyle, will make his third trip. Oxford, who has placed third and fifth in Greco and third in freestyle, will make his third trip as well.

Larry Meyers, David Thompson and Brooks Narvaez have also qualified for the tournament.

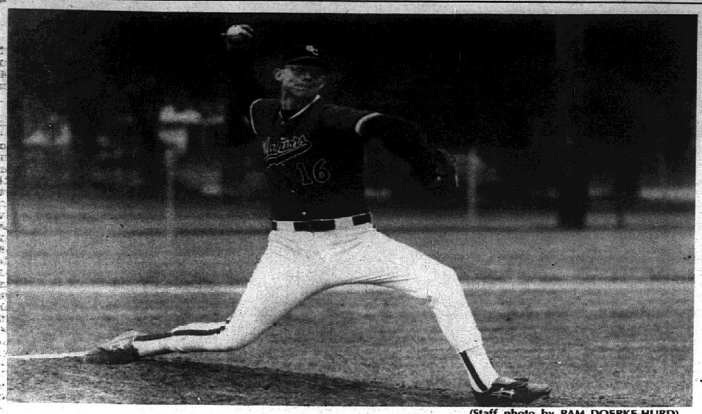

Also qualifying in the Junior Greco Nationals, tentatively set to be held in Fargo, N.D., is Granite City's T.J. Slay, a two-time qualifier and the 1995 Illinois 130-pound state high school champion.

Besides the work Kirgan puts into coaching the wrestlers, being chosen to coach at the national events means a lot of driving to do.

"I have to drive to Indianapolis, then turn around and drive to Omaha," he said. "It gets pretty tiring, but I love it."

Ricky Lewis notched a three-bagger of his own. Two more hits followed, and even the Colts' three outs in the seventh were hit hard.

"I don't think it was a case of us being more relaxed or anything," Stanford said. "We had been hitting shots all day for outs, and their pitcher got a few balls up in that inning. We capitalized on that."

"You can never relax, no matter what the situation," DePew said. "This team can surprise you."

Overall, the big offensive numbers made for a long day at a warm Jones Park.

"It was the longest two games we have played so far," DePew said. "But I don't mind the heat. That's what baseball is all about."

"It got a little long. That can happen when things aren't going your way," Stanford said. "But we'll get after 'em next time."

With the two victories, Granite City remained in first place in the North Division. The Clippers have two doubleheaders scheduled this weekend: Saturday at Belleville and Sunday at Edwardsville.

Dale Earnhardt's Winston Cup Monte Carlo will be on display Saturday, June 10 as Tri-City presents Albrecht Hamlin Chevrolet Night. Gates open at 6 p.m. with racing set to begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $8 for adults, $5 for students (ages 11-17) and $2 for children age 10 and under.

ahead today. He just struggled with his curveball.

"I heard he was a great pitcher, but if you don't have one of your best pitches you're not going to win the game."

The Indians (14-9) got to Field in the first inning with two runs when it looked like he was ready to have an easy frame. Field struck out Brian Schneider and got David Crowe to ground out. But Toby Lindsay smacked a drive to dead center field for a double, and Mike Klein followed with a RBI single.

Klein then stole second base and scored on Ryan Binsbacher's RBI single.

Crowe came up with a big two-out hit in the second inning. Crowe hit a smash through the thick infield grass. Collinsville first baseman Eric Parrill dove to his right and gloved the ball, but when he got up the ball popped out and his throw to first was not in time.

Jeff Tyler walked to start the inning. He was replaced by pinch runner Dan Rudy, who scored the Indians' third run.

The Indians scored three times in the fourth on four consecutive hits with two outs. Crowe started the inning with a single. Lindsay followed with an RBI double to left field to give the Indians a 4-0 lead. Klein got his second RBI of the game with a single to left to make it 5-0.

Collinsville reliever Steve Connor came in to replace Field and gave up an RBI double to Binsbacher before settling down and retiring Thompson.

Klein got his third RBI of the day for the Indians in the sixth. Schneider singled and stole second base, and Klein drove him in with a single to left.

"We've had good hitters all year and good pitching," Junker said. "With the rain, we could never get anything going. We didn't get to play a lot of games. We didn't get to practice a lot outside.

"When you don't do those things, it is hard to be consistent and we weren't."

They were on Tuesday.

Collinsville did make a game of it in its final at bat. Jason Bilyeu and Mike Radosevich started the seventh inning with back-to-back walks. Kevin Muniz followed with a double, plating Bilyeu and Radosevich.

Brendel struck out the next two hitters before Brian Muniz reached on an error by shortstop Shawn Bault. With runners on the corners, Andy McFall delivered the next big blow — a double to left — scoring both Kevin and Brian Muniz.

Bault came in to relieve Brendel. He gave up a RBI single to Derek Johnson, cutting the Indians' lead to 7-5. Bault was then able to get Parrill to hit into a forceout at second to end the game.

The sectional semifinals were moved to Monday after inclement weather postponed both games Saturday. The sectional championship game was scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday at Kaskaskia College, with the winner moving on to this weekend's Class AA state tournament.

Horoscope

Wednesday, June 7
The moon glides into sociable Libra in the morning. Meet the public — your best face is in full view. A sincere morning dialogue relieves tension in a key liaison when the moon (feelings) and Pluto (psychology) connect. Avoid making critical decisions while the moon departs Virgo in the morning — thinking could be flawed. New encounters are exciting as the moon contacts Uranus (sudden change).

ARIES (March 21-April 19). A nerve-tingling talk transports acquaintances toward ecstatic love. You'll have power through your assignments.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Your warm allure's irresistible — a secret admirer waits for your cue before revealing his or her love. Invite someone special to lunch — amorous feelings brew.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Your artistic vision's unleashed. Buy software or other creative tools that help you produce.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Fluctuations at work keep you on your toes. Love needs a dash of spice — put sappy sentiments aside.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). A relentlessly, urgent love won't leave you alone. You carry off your ambitious plan.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 7). Loved ones prove their commitment by adding their resources to yours, resolving partnership issues at home and upgrading domestic life through July. Enjoy a creative frenzy in August.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The business partner you choose seems an unlikely match. Be flexible, and balance conservative and unconventional points of view.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). A string of nifty surprises alters home life for the better. At work, you emerge as a first-class star. Be a mentor for students or novices in your field.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22). But too much self-sacrifice backfires and places you in a victim role. Creating a balance of give-and-take is a must for mates.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Community relations are briefly tense. Stay cool. Your grace under fire earns respect from neighbors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). At work, you're poised to advance. Don't box yourself in by criticizing a VIP. You're willingly seduced by love-struck date.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You're an original in every sense of the word. Being yourself brings you luck.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20). At home, profound emotions compel you to blurt out your feelings in the morning. You and your mate reconcile.

When using cheese in salad, a stronger variety boosts flavor in a smaller serving. Smoked Gouda or mozzarella are options, as are Gongonzola and blue. Cheese with peppers in it and even sharp cheddar leave quick, delicious flavor impressions.

Health & Fitness

Medicine Chest

It is best to take oral medicine with a full glass of water. However, follow your doctor's or pharmacist's directions. Some medicines should be taken with food, while others should be taken on an empty stomach.

Fresh Picks

Perk up. Peaches and nectarines are in the market with their promise of more summer flavors to come. Two medium peaches, two plums or one medium nectarine has only about 70 calories, most of which come from carbohydrates for quick energy. For a sweet side dish, saute or grill fresh fruit with a touch of margarine or butter, then sprinkle with chopped fresh mint or cinnamon.

Big Fat Tip

Soft tacos are a new Tex-Mex favorite. Keep fat low by using non-fat refried beans cooked with chopped onion, mushrooms and a couple olives. Add taco seasoning. Add chopped lettuce and tomato. Roll in barely-warm soft flour tortillas.

Future Shop

Salsa sales are hotter than a jalapeno. In the last four years, more than 700 new salsa and picante products have been introduced. While chips and dips are front runners in Tex-Mex marketing, spin-off products, like Mexican beers and tequila for margaritas, are becoming mainstream as the food expands its borders.

Hunt out a supermarket's newer flavors to go with pasta made from wheat or noodles.

GRAIN GAINS

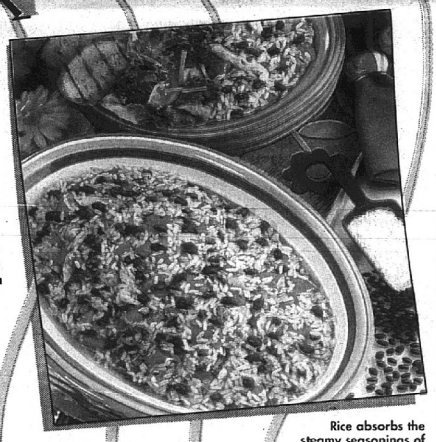

By Janice Denham
Staff writer

Bread is a beginning. Pasta is perfect. Other grains wave with glory to come. Barley is so old-fashioned it has new fans. Whole wheat has come full circle and is beloved again for its dark richness in bulgur, berries and germ. Millet is for more than birds. Quinoa, buckwheat and amaranth hint at a popularity shared by other cultures.

With all this variety, it is not hard to get an optimum of six to 11 servings of grain foods a day. Many meal portions on a plate or sandwich include more than a single "serving," which is just 1 slice of bread, 1 ounce of ready-to-eat cereal or 1/2 cup cooked cereal, rice or pasta.

Here are a few easy recipes using grain products as cornerstones. Eggs offer body and flavor that smooths out bolder tastes in the stir-fry and Paper towels can be a pal or a pain in the kitchen. This week's test was for Schnucks paper towels.

Paper towel's pluses: absorbent, together

Paper towels serve many purposes in a kitchen. At various times they are a mop, a bib, a nose-blower and a peek-a-boo screen.

Suburban Journal testers used them for traditional purposes, including cleaning desks and lunchtime napkins.

Their initial price by the roll was 50 cents, which is the same as economy paper napkins. They have been available individually and in economy packs.

"These are on the next level of quality," one tester said when she compared them to a cheaper brand. "Schnucks paper towels were stronger and thicker. They also could be removed from the roll without ripping."

Another added, "They have a nice weave. The double-ply holds together well and gives a nice cushion feel."

A later shelf price of 79 cents a roll is less than other mid-range paper towels as well. While not in the super-absorbent range of quality, they held up well in individual tests for a towel with middle-of-the-road capabilities.

Several were used for everyday cleaning purposes.

"I used them to wash out my cup and spoon. Both held up fine when wet and both could be wrung out and opened back up to use again," a tester said.

"I put water on it and brought it back to wash off my desk. It held the water without feeling like it would burst and held onto the water when I used it on the desk, too," another tester said.

Most testers were not devoted to a single brand of paper towel, so several mentioned they would be looking to buy the brand at Schnuck Markets.

Diabetes control depends on fats

Diabetes mellitus affects about 12 million individuals in the United States and perhaps as many as 200 million wordwide.

Non-insulin-dependent diabetus mellitus (NIDDM or Type II) accounts for about 90 percent of the diabetes in the U.S. This form increases with age and often is associated with obesity.

A common misconception is that individuals with diabetes control this disease solely by eliminating sugar intake. Consumption of simple sugar, such as sucrose, is not forbidden for persons with diabetes and should be considered part of total carbohydrate intake.

This liberalized point of view is often difficult to accept and challenging not to abuse. Limits on consumption of sweets should be based on individual goals for blood glucose control and weight maintenance or weight loss, which may need periodic reassessment with a doctor or other health professional, including a dietitian.

Treatment for NIDDM includes exercise and often some type of medication taken orally or by injection.

The cornerstone of diabetes management, however, is diet. Individuals with diabetes are at increased risk for heart disease, including stroke. In fact, heart attack is the No. 1 killer of people with diabetes. Thus, eating according to American Heart Association guidelines is essential.

The heart association recommends all Americans keep total dietary fat — and real amounts will be determined by the needs of the person with Type II diabetes — at or below 30 percent of total calories.

The emphasis on fat, rather than totally on sugars, is a surprise to many people. People with diabetes should limit their intake of saturated fat, which raises cholesterol levels and increases the risk for heart disease.

This translates into buying only lean meats, trimming their fat before cooking and eating skinless poultry and fish more frequently than red meat and grilling and roasting, rather than frying, foods.

Low-fat dairy products and low-fat baked goods should be on the menu as well.

It's a good idea to plan eating routines around plant sources with plenty of fiber. Lentils, butter beans, baked beans and other dried peas and beans are good protein sources, lower cholesterol and stabilize blood sugar levels.

Unsaturated fat helps lower cholesterol and makes the diet balanced, helping to control blood glucose. The American Heart Association recommends five to eight servings daily, with a single serving set at 1 teaspoon oil or margarine, 1 tablespoon salad dressing or nuts, 5 to 10 olives or 1 6 avocado.

Desserts can be a pitfall because they often contain little or no nutrition. Very Berry Sorbet is a perfect ending to a healthy meal. It is from the American Heart Association's "Low-Fat, Low Cholesterol Cookbook," by Dr. Scott Grundy.

Registered dietitian Cheryl Houston is a member of the nutrition committee of the American Heart Association, St. Louis Chapter.

VERY BERRY SORBET

1½ cups fresh or frozen no-sugar-added blackberries, strawberries or raspberries, slightly defrosted if necessary
1 tsp. frozen orange juice concentrate
2 tsp. water
1 tsp. brandy or cognac, if desired
Fresh mint sprigs, if desired

In blender or food processor, process berries, juice concentrate, water and brandy untilsmooth, scraping sides as needed. Garnish with mint.

Serve immediately, or freeze until serving. If frozen, remove from freezer about 15 minutes before serving and let defrost until soft enough to serve.

Fast food can be balanced when simple and small

Cruising the fast food stops on a trip or just picking up a quick meal on a busy day offers a variety of stops.

Fast food has a reputation for being high in fat, salt and calories, but "light" items are popping up on every restaurant's menu.

There is one rule for making the best of convenient and popular fast food: Keep it small, keep it simple and add fruits and vegetables to balance nutrition.

Keep in mind dietary guidelines recommend an average person keep fat grams to 65 grams or less per day. This averages at about 20 grams fat per meal or an alternative of 15 grams for breakfast, 15 grams for lunch and 30 grams for supper. The remaining 5 grams probably will be eaten in a snack.

Hardee's is today's example for assessing fast food orders.

To keep fat grams reasonable, think small. Choose a smaller sandwich, simple salad and small order of fries.

Start with one of the following Hardee's sandwiches: small hamburger (9 grams fat), a small cheeseburger (13 grams fat), "lite" chicken sandwich (10 grams fat) or regular roast beef (11 grams fat).

A small order of fries adds 10 grams fat to the meal, while a large order of fries yields 18 grams.

Thus, a meal based on a small sandwich and small order of fries adds up to about 20 grams fat. To round out this meal nutritionally, add a bunch of grapes, an apple or a mini-box of raisins from home, or order a Hardee's orange juice or Cool Twist cone.

Note that oversized, super-sandwiches like the Frisco Burger (50 grams fat) and the Bacon Cheeseburger (36 grams fat) gobble up three-fourths of a day's entire fat allotment.

Salads are reasonable choices when used as a main course, but use caution when adding salad dressing. Two tablespoons dressing adds an additional 20 grams of fat. Opting for a nonfat version keeps fat down.

Here is how a meal of chicken adds up.

A single chicken breast with an order of mashed potatoes yields a sensible 15 grams fat. Hungry diners can keep down fat by adding a side salad with low-fat dressing, an extra order of mashed potatoes and a glass of orange juice. If a side of creamy slaw and a thigh are added to the meal, the fat jumps to 50 grams. Eat a biscuit and the meal tops out at 70 grams fat.

For breakfast, stick to pancakes. Three Hardee's pancakes yield a mere 2 grams fat. Add one sausage patty and the fat jumps to 16 grams fat, which is still within the 15- to 20-gram fat budget. Boost nutrition by adding orange juice and low-fat milk.

Stick to simple fare with an occasional order of a biscuit. Biscuits by their very nature are fatty. A plain, unadorned biscuit runs 21 grams fat. The ham biscuit, cinnamon raisin biscuit and blueberry muffin range from 17 to 22 grams fat. In contrast, a sausage, bacon or cheese biscuit has 27 to 35 grams fat. Again, for breakfast stick to small and simple because an oversized entree like Big Country Sausage Breakfast has 61 grams fat, almost a whole day's allotment.

For dessert or a snack, a cool twist cone at a mere 4 grams fat is a wise choice in three delicious flavors.

Fast foods are salty, contributing 1,000 to 2,000 milligrams sodium per entree item.

Tomato, olives give life to broccoli salad

Bobbie Mattern, Belleville, Ill., is this week's winner of dinner certificates to the Pasta House Co. for Broccoli Salad.

Weekly winners on the four Wednesdays in July will be taken from these entries, which should be postmarked by June 30.

A single entry to the contest should be sent to: CPP Recipe Contest, Suburban Journals, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, Mo. 63131.

quiche. Wheat or rice vermicelli is thin, so do not overcook it. Pad thai, as it is called, is a popular Thai dish.

Rice in the Cuban-flavored dish can be white or brown. Using half the chicken and switching to brown rice gives it a slightly new flavor profile with the firmer crunch of the rice but all the zing of handy seasonings. Beans add heartiness, protein and versatility to the dish.

THAI-STYLE TRIPLE DELIGHT

1 cup (about 3 oz.) fresh bean sprouts
½ cup sliced green onion with tops
1 jar or can (about 8 oz.) pickled or plain whole baby corn, drained
¼ cup chopped peanuts
½ cup (about 2 oz.) fresh straw mushrooms
4 eggs
¾ tsp. garlic powder
½ cup sweet-and-sour stir-fry sauce
4 oz. uncooked vermicelli or rice noodles

Cook noodles according to package directions. Drain.

In medium bowl, using fork, toss together sprouts, onion, corn and peanuts.

Generously coat large saucepan with nonstick cooking spray. Over medium heat, cook mushrooms, stirring occasionally, 3 to 4 minutes until tender.

In small bowl, beat together eggs and garlic powder until blended. Pour over mushrooms. Cook, stirring to break up egg, until no visible liquid remains but it still is moist.

Stir in sauce, vermicelli and reserved sprout mixture. Continue cooking, gently tossing with 2 spoons to distribute heat, until heated through.

Makes 4 servings.

POLENTA QUICHE

2¼ cups water
¾ cup cornmeal
6 eggs, well beaten
1 tsp. garlic powder
½ cup reduced-fat chunky blue cheese salad dressing
3 cups chopped fresh vegetables, cooked, drained, or frozen vegetable blend (broccoli, red peppers, onions and mushrooms preferred), thawed, drained

Preheat oven to 375°. Grease 9-inch pie pan well.

In medium saucepan, bring water to boil. Stir in cornmeal. Cook and stir about 5 minutes until consistency of stiff mashed potatoes. Stir in 3 tablespoons beaten egg and ½ teaspoon garlic powder until well blended.

With well-greased spoon, press mixture over bottom and up side of prepared pan, smoothing with fingers if necessary.

Stir remaining garlic powder and dressing into remaining beaten egg until well blended. Stir in vegetables. Pour into prepared crust.

Bake in preheated oven 35 to 40 minutes until puffed in center and knife inserted near center comes out clean. Let stand 5 minutes before serving.

Makes 6 servings.

SPICY CUBAN CHICKEN

1 bottle (8 oz.) nonfat Italian salad dressing
3 cloves garlic, minced
½ tsp. ground red pepper
1 lb. boned, skinned chicken breast, cut in strips ¼ inch thick
1 tbsp. olive oil
2 medium red or green bell peppers, chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
1 tsp. oregano
½ tsp. black pepper
½ tsp. cumin
6 cups cooked rice
2 cans (15 oz.) black beans, drained, rinsed
2 cans (14½ oz. each) diced tomato
Chopped fresh cilantro

Combine dressing, garlic and red pepper. In large glass bowl, pour dressing over chicken. Refrigerate, covered, at least 30 minutes, as long as overnight.

Remove chicken and drain well. Discard marinade.

In large skillet over medium-high heat, heat oil until hot. Cook chicken 5 to 7 minutes, stirring, until it is slightly brown, spooning off any excess liquid.

Add bell pepper, onion, oregano, black pepper and cumin. Cook, stirring, 4 to 5 minutes until vegetables are tender. Add rice, beans and tomato. Cook 2 to 3 minutes until thoroughly heated.

Garnish with cilantro. Serve immediately.

Makes 6 servings; 490 calories, 31 g protein, 6 g fat, 77 g carbohydrate, 48 mg cholesterol, 761 mg sodium and 5 g dietary fiber each.

What cook can warm up recipe for $1 million?

When it comes to what's cooking, what dish is worth $1 million? That's what the Pillsbury Co. wants to know. It will give that much money — the largest awarded in such a competition — to the grand prize winner in the 37th Bake-Off Contest next February in Dallas, Texas.

One hundred finalists will be invited to compete. There will be top prizes in four categories:

• Special side dishes and simple breads can include vegetable and salad side dishes, as well as breads, sweet rolls and muffins. An example is Cream Cheese-Capped Carrot Muffins, which uses carrot quick bread mix.

• Quick treats and snacks can be sweet or savory treats, like family-pleasing bars, cookies, sandwiches, snacks and appetizers which take 15 minutes or less to prepare, excluding baking or cooking time. Chicken Black Bean Tostizzas, a finalist in last year's contest, is a good example.

• Thirty-minute main dishes could be casseroles, skillet meals, soups and other main dishes that can be made and ready to serve in no more than 30 minutes.

• Special occasion desserts can include pies, cakes, cobblers and other desserts created for family and friends.

Recipes must be original.

Because of Pillsbury's broader family of products — including Tex-Mex ingredients under the Old El Paso name acquired with St. Louis's Pet Inc. — there is a greater variety of sponsoring products which can be used in the recipes.

Luscious muffins, like these capped with cream cheese and almonds, have been contenders in Pillsbury Bake-Off Contests. The best recipe chosen from the 100 finalists will be awarded $1 million in February.

Micro Raves

Turn aside wet weather by microwaving kabobs

This is a great time for outdoor parties to celebrate weddings and graduations.

When wet or cool weather complicates logistics of the occasion, use a microwave oven to outsmart the detour. Using it for advance preparation lets a cook enjoy the party more, too.

Kabobs — skewered meat with or without vegetables — are popular from the grill and can be done successfully in a microwave. Use wooden skewers instead of metal ones. They do not need to be soaked in water before using, as necessary for grilling, because of the short cooking time.

Shrimp can be marinated before cooking and does not overcook in a microwave.

Finish the meal with bread sticks, a huge tossed salad and fresh fruit served in a carved watermelon basket for an easy and timely party presentation.

Home economist Sandra Hounsom specializes in microwave cooking.

SKEWERED GARLIC SHRIMP

- 1 lb. large shrimp, peeled, deveined
- 2 tbsp. reduced-sodium soy sauce
- 1 can (15 oz.) pineapple chunks, drained, reserving 2 tbsp. juice
- 1 tbsp. oil
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- ¼ tsp. crushed red pepper flakes, if desired
- 3 green onions, cut in 1 inch pieces

Combine soy sauce, pineapple juice, oil, garlic and red pepper in resealable plastic bag. Add shrimp, pineapple and onion. Close bag. Marinate up to 1 hour. Drain, reserving marinade.

Thread shrimp on wooden skewers with 1 piece pineapple and 1 piece onion on each. On longer skewers, repeat alternating pieces.

Place skewers in glass baking dish. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave on high power 3 minutes. Baste with marinade and turn skewers. Microwave on medium (50 percent) power 2 to 3 minutes until shrimp are pink and opaque.

SHREDDED CARROT SALAD

- 4 tbsp. vegetable oil
- 2 tbsp. sesame oil
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 1 tbsp. sesame seeds
- 4 tbsp. fresh lemon juice

Blanch carrots in boiling, salted water 1 to 2 minutes. Drain. Rinse in cool water.

Combine vegetable oil and sesame oil in pan. Saute garlic over moderate heat until golden.

Discard garlic. Cook sesame seeds in oil until golden. Toss with blanched carrot. Salt and pepper to taste

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Delicious mayo holds line on fat in creamy salads

Americans have a love-hate relationship with mayonnaise. They love it as a sandwich spread and dressing on favorite salads, but hate the fat and calories it adds and the potential danger from spoilage in warm weather.

It is easy to forget condiments when looking for places to reduce fat in everyday eating, but it is a quick and easy place to cut.

Substituting a tablespoon of mustard for a tablespoon of mayonnaise on a sandwich instantly saves 90 calories and 10 grams fat. Reduced-fat versions halve the fat and calories of regular mayonnaise. Fat can be diluted further flavorably by mixing a tablespoon of low-fat mayonnaise with a teaspoon or two of mild vinegar (such as balsamic), plain yogurt, Worcestershire sauce, orange juice or even water.

When preparing tuna salad with mayonnaise, use a mixture of half low-fat mayonnaise and half nonfat yogurt to keep the mayo flavor with a fraction of the fat. This trade-off works for many salads, including potato salad and coleslaw. Dressing also can be made with equal amounts of nonfat yogurt and low-fat sour cream. For a totally new potato salad sensation, dress ingredients with a light vinaigrette using a small amount of olive oil.

Delicious green goddess salad dressing can be made without the traditional mayonnaise and sour cream. After preparing, it can be served immediately on a favorite crisp salad or covered and refrigerated for later.

In a blender, process 1 cucumber, peeled, seeded and cut in chunks; 2 tablespoons chopped or 1½ teaspoons dried parsley; 1 scallion, cut in 1-inch lengths; 2 tablespoons oil; 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice; 1 clove garlic and ¼ teaspoon pepper sauce until smooth. Add ½ cup plain low-fat yogurt and blend on low speed about 10 seconds until smooth.

Tex-Mex Coleslaw gets zip from the mild tang of its dressing, but still manages to let cabbage's sweet taste shine through.

Registered dietitian Melanie Polk is director of nutrition education for the American Institute for Cancer Research in Washington.

TEX-MEX COLESLAW

- 1¼ lb. green cabbage
- 1 small or medium onion, sliced
- ¼ tsp. garlic powder, or 2 cloves garlic, sliced
- 2 tsp. sugar
- ⅓ cup red wine vinegar
- 3 tbsp. oil
- Pepper sauce to taste (a few drops to ¼ tsp.)

Remove outer leaves of cabbage. Core and shred by hand or food processor.

In blender or food processor, blend onion, garlic powder, sugar, vinegar, oil and pepper sauce until well mixed, or chop onions finely and mix well by hand.

After adjusting seasoning level, pour dressing over cabbage in large bowl. Toss well.

Recipe

SWEET N SOUR TUNA RICE SALAD

- 3 tbsp. red wine vinegar
- 2 tsp. sugar
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ¼ to ½ tsp. pepper
- 1 can (about 6 oz.) water-packed tuna, drained (reserving 1 tbsp. liquid), broken in chunks
- 2 cups cooked long grain white or brown rice
- 2 cups chopped peeled fresh tomato
- 1 cup finely diced red onion
- 1 cup finely diced celery
- ½ cup chopped scallion
- ½ cup frozen peas, thawed

In small bowl, combine vinegar, sugar, salt, pepper and reserved tuna liquid.

In large bowl, combine tuna, rice, tomato, onion, celery, scallion and peas. Add vinegar mixture. Toss. Let stand 10 minutes. Toss again.

Serve immediately, on bed or watercress or arugula if desired.

Wake a favorite person for elegant, delicious breakfast

The message of breakfast in bed is easy to read. It says, "I love you" or "I'm proud of you."

It doesn't have to be on an anniversary or birthday, nor does it have to wait for Father's Day or Mother's Day to take effect. It just requires a leisurely morning, a tray and one or two special foods to produce an appreciative response.

It is more of an adult adventure, although kids are certain to get into the spirit and remember such a meal when they help prepare it for a special someone.

An easy-to-make blender cheese souffle and heart-shaped biscuits are sure-fire winners. The souffle can be measured straight into a blender and refrigerated overnight, while the biscuits can be shaped from refrigerated varieties or baked from scratch. For a gourmet feast, serve ripe red strawberries with sour cream for dipping and steamed asparagus on the side.

New video on calcium targets young women

The Missouri Osteoporosis Foundation and St. Louis District Dairy Council have teamed up to make it easier for girls and young women to bridge the nutrition gap between the calcium they need and get.

Targeted at teenagers, 1,000 copies of a new 15-minute educational video, "Build Better Bone Now," will be placed in high schools in the dairy council's service area in Missouri and Illinois this summer.

It follows a zany character and his teenage friends as they learn about osteoporosis, or brittle bone disease. Teens learn to consume more dietary calcium, do weight-bearing exercise, avoid smoking and cut back on soft drinks to prevent bone disease.

Dr. Barbara Sterkel, president of the Missouri Osteoporosis Foundation and assistant clinical professor of medicine at St. Louis University, and a cast of local teenage actors are featured in the educational video.

Interested people or groups beyond the schools also may borrow or buy the video.

"Build Better Bone Now" is endorsed by the Bone Health Program of the Division of Bone and Mineral Diseases of Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis.

The video illustrates some key points found in a new study reported in the "Journal of Pediatrics" (April, 1995).

Dr. Gary Chan, author of the study and professor of pediatrics at the University of Utah, says, "Girls and young women typically do not consume enough calcium and calcium-rich dairy foods. They drink diet soft drinks instead of milk, in an effort to cut calories. This makes it difficult for them to reach their peak bone mass — putting them at increased risk for osteoporosis later in life."

"Build Better Bone Now" shows that, in contrast to milk, soft drinks do not supply calcium. In addition, phosphates in soft drinks block calcium absorption and caffeine promotes calcium loss through urine.

In Dr. Chan's study, girls between 9 and 13 years of age who increased consumption of dairy foods had positive effects on bone density and nutrient intake without unwanted weight gain and increased body fat. For typically weight-conscious girls of that age, this is good news.

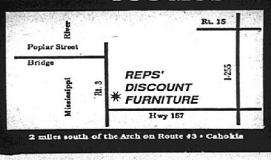

Researchers found girls maintained calorie and fat levels while eating more dairy foods, often by choosing yogurt and string cheese as after-school snacks instead of less nutritious foods, such as high-calorie, high-fat potato chips and cookies.

The new video and guide suggest healthy snacks with youth appeal, such as milk shakes with fruit.

Gardening Tips

from the experts at

FRANK'S®

Need some tips and suggestions for the month of June? As always, we're happy to oblige. Just in case you find some spare time between the graduations, parties and weddings, here are a few ways to wile away the hours in the garden.

If your patio is made up of individual blocks, remove one or two and replace them with good topsoil and plant a flower or veggie. It's a unique accent, provided it's not located in an area where it will be in the way.

Harvest herbs while tops are fresh and green, prior to bloom. If roots or seeds are the desired portion, wait until they have fully developed. Dry herbs in the shade for best oil retention.

Inspect your vegetable garden for insects on a regular basis so you can treat them before the problem gets bigger. Don't forget to look under leaves.

Spring flowering shrubs and trees should have been pruned already. If not, don't try to do it now. Any further pruning may remove next year's flowers, which are forming at this time.

If you put some houseplants outside, don't neglect them. Continue to water and keep them well groomed.

When cutting roses to bring indoors, make the cut so at least two 5-leaflet leaves are left on the new shoot. This will produce a stronger new growth. Follow this same procedure when removing faded roses from the bush.

Container-grown annuals require extra attention when watering. Due to the confined root area, they tend to dry rapidly and should be checked frequently. Water containers thoroughly, until water seeps out the drainage holes.

A round, brown sunken area on the bottom of tomatoes may be blossom-end rot. To prevent this, keep soil uniformly moist around the plants. Try mulching plants to keep moisture levels constant. While on the subject of tomatoes, you can make the most of your garden space by training tomatoes to grow up on a stake or in a tomato cage. The fruit will be cleaner, too.

Daylilies would make a great addition to your garden. These hardy perennials will flower for three to four weeks in shades of cream, peach, orange and red. By choosing early-, mid- and late-season varieties, you can have color through September.

Pinch back any geraniums that have been blooming. This will keep them from becoming too leggy. Remember, geraniums are plants that love the hot sun. They don't mind being a little dry.

Father's Day is coming up soon. When dad's not around, sneak a peek at his garden tools. If any appear a little shabby, a new one or two would be a pleasant surprise. The same goes for the hoses and sprinklers, too!

Hummingbirds are attracted by red, orange or pink tubular flowers. Plant petunias, phlox or lilies to bring them to your yard.

When planting transplants, an application of granular fertilizer such as 5-10-5 should be worked into the soil.

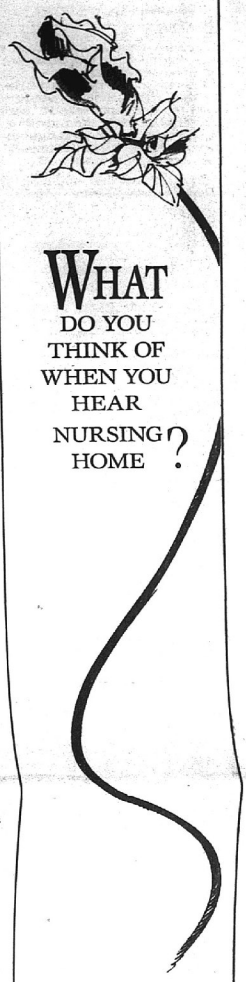

If you have grass and/or weeds peeking up from the cracks in the drive or sidewalk, zap 'em with a non-selective weed and grass killer such as Triox or Roundup. Be careful with the spray, though. It'll kill anything it contacts.

Teen earns culinary ticket by stuffing drumsticks

By Cathy Pollack
Correspondent

Perhaps teen Tyson Davenport was born with a measuring spoon in his hand.

At only 18, the Francis Howell High School senior with a serious talent for cooking already has won a scholarship to the prestigious Johnson and Wells Culinary Institute in Providence, R.I.

Chosen from 550 applicants in entree or baking categories, Davenport's signature recipe for Smoked Stuffed Chicken Thighs with Sweet Potato Puree took him in April to Providence to compete with nine others in his category.

Becky Crawford, his occupational foods class teacher, says he deserves the honor of being the first Missouri winner.

"Tyson's a committed, wonderful young man, and I don't get many students as focused as he is," Crawford says.

She encourages his love of cooking and accompanied him and his parents, Tim and Beverly Davenport, to the cookoff to root for him.

His cooking interest started before his teen years.

"When I was little, Chef Tell was on TV and I wanted to cook like him, even in grade school. By freshman year I thought, if I like it so much, why not pursue a career in it? My parents and my teacher, Miss Crawford, have been very supportive," he says.

His chosen path consumes his time. Davenport occasionally cooks dinner for his parents. Outside school he works part-time as a fry cook at Whitmoor Country Club in St. Charles.

His stuffed chicken dish took about a year to perfect. At only 6 grams fat in the whole dish, it follows the contest requirement that it be healthy, as well as original.

"I wanted to take a cheap piece of meat and make it look like a wild game bird. Also, spinach and red onion go well with sweet things, so I sauteed them with a little honey," Davenport says.

He enjoys preparing impromptu dishes, such as those for his parents where he comes up with dinner with whatever is in the refrigerator. His current study is wines.

"Before I get old enough to drink them, I want to know about them — wine labels, regions, vintages," he says.

Davenport happily anticipates his five years at the renowned Johnson and Wells, where he expects to gain an associate's degree in culinary arts, a bachelor's degree and a restaurant degree.

SMOKED STUFFED CHICKEN THIGHS

8 chicken thighs
2½ cups honey
¾ cup water
¾ cup zinfandel blush wine
2 tbsp. rosemary
2 tbsp. Dijon mustard
1 tbsp. minced shallot
1½ tsp. nutmeg
Salt and white pepper to taste

Stuffing

In large mixing bowl, whisk together honey, water, wine, rosemary, mustard, shallot, nutmeg, salt and pepper.

Remove skin and visible fat from chicken. Place fleshside down on cutting board. Partially remove meat from bone by slitting meat from wide hip joint to drum joint. Slowly pull out bone and grasp meat, causing it to turn inside out.

Place chicken in large flat pan. Pour honey mixture over it. Refrigerate, covered, 1 hour.

To prepare, drain and discard marinade from chicken. Place 2 tablespoons Stuffing in each chicken leg. Skewer shut. When completed, meat again looks like chicken legs.

Place hickory chips soaked in water in flat pan. Place in 400° oven. When chips begin to smolder, place chicken on rack, then place rack in large flat pan. Cover with aluminunum foil with holes poked to allow ventilation.

Smoke chicken in preheated oven 20 minutes. Remove thighs to casserole dish. Bake, uncovered, 25 to 30 minutes longer until juices run clear.

Stuffing: Remove thick vein from ½ to ¾ pound spinach. Coarsely chop leaves. Add 1 large red onion, thinly sliced.

In nonstick skillet, heat 3 tablespoons honey. Add 2 tablespoons minced shallot and red onion. Let sweat 2 minutes. Add spinach. Cook about 5 minutes.

Poetry Contest – $24,000 in Prizes

The National Library of Poetry to award 250 total prizes

The Coming of Dawn, featured above, is one of NLP's recent deluxe hardbound anthologies.

Owings Mills, MD – The National Library of Poetry has just announced that $24,000 in prizes will be awarded over the next 12 months in the North American Open Amateur Poetry Contest. The deadline for entry into the contest is June 30, 1995. Another contest begins July 1, 1995. The contest is open to everyone and entry is free.

"We're especially looking for poems from new or unpublished poets," indicated Howard Ely, spokesperson for The National Library of Poetry, "we have a ten year history of awarding large prizes to talented poets who have never before won any type of writing competition."

How To Enter

Anyone may enter the competition simply by sending in one original poem, any subject, any style to:

The National Library of Poetry
11419 Cronridge Drive
PO Box 704-6162
Owings Mills, MD 21117

The poem should be no more than 20 lines, and the poet's name and address must appear on the top of the page. Entries must be postmarked by June 30, 1995. "Each poem received will be acknowledged, usually within seven weeks," indicated Mr. Ely.

Possible Publication

Many submitted poems will also be considered for inclusion in one of The National Library of Poetry's forthcoming hardbound anthologies. Anthologies published by the organization have included, On the Threshold of a Dream, Days of Future's Past, Of Diamonds and Rust, and Moments More to Go, among others.

Imported 'reds' prove tomatoes wait for no man

They may not come from the back yard, but they still have that tomato look and tomato "squish" when they turn into salad.

Until the entire Northern Hemisphere turns tropical, it is doubtful tomato-lovers ever will enjoy in June the deep reds and generous juice of an August tomato. However, those in the market today are a welcome prelude to the familiar flavor of that home-grown fruit-turned-vegetable. Now they come from three major growing regions: Florida, California and Western Mexico.

Served in thick slices with fresh basil and marinated mozzarella cheese cubes, tomatoes will be a picnic — or go on one. With Greek-style ingredients, they become a delicious addition to a patio party.

TOMATO, BASIL AND MOZZARELLA SALAD

- 4 vine-ripe tomatoes (about 2 lb.), thickly sliced
- 8 oz. mozzarella cheese, cut in 1 inch cubes
- ⅓ cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 3 tbsp. fresh lemon juice (1 large lemon)
- 1 clove garlic, mashed, finely chopped
- ½ tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. freshly ground pepper
- 8 large fresh basil leaves

In small bowl, mix together oil, lemon juice, garlic, salt and pepper. Pour over cheese. Let sit at room temperature 30 minutes or refrigerate until serving time.

Divide tomatoes among 4 salad plates. Spoon cheese and dressing mixture over tomatoes.

Chop 4 basil leaves and sprinkle over each serving. Garnish with remaining whole basil.

Makes 4 servings.

GREEK SALAD

- 1 pt. cherry tomatoes, halved, or 2 vine-ripe tomatoes, chopped
- 1 small bunch romaine lettuce, cut in bite-size pieces
- ½ cucumber, peeled, sliced
- ½ red onion, thinly sliced
- ¼ cup parsley leaves
- ¼ cup mint leaves
- 1 tbsp. chopped fresh dill
- ½ cup olive oil
- 3 tbsp. red wine vinegar
- 1 clove garlic, finely chopped
- ½ tsp. cumin
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- 2 oz. feta cheese, crumbed
- ½ cup Kalamata olives

In large bowl, toss together tomatoes, lettuce, cucumber, onion, mint, parsley and dill.

In small bowl, whisk together oil, vinegar, garlic, cumin, salt and pepper.

Pour over tomato mixture. Toss.

Divide salad among individual plates.

Sprinkle with feta cheese and olives.

Makes 6 servings.
